

Jane Cooper

Music therapist

Jane qualified as a music therapist in 2000 at University of Surrey, Roehampton. Prior to training as a therapist, she studied music at University of Wales, Aberystwyth and the cello at Trinity College of Music after which she pursued a career in performing and teaching. It was during this time that she developed a particular interest in working with children and went onto qualify as a teacher in 1993, working in mainstream and special schools.

As a music therapist, Jane has worked in a wide range of settings including: mainstream and special schools, private practice and a community setting for adults with mental health difficulties. This experience has given her the opportunity to work with people with complex needs, ASC, communication difficulties, learning disabilities and emotional and mental health needs.

Jane joined Key Changes in 2015 where she enjoys working as a member of the therapy team. She is currently working with primary aged children in a mainstream school and providing online therapy at a special school for children who are unable to attend school full time.

When not working as a therapist, Jane teaches the cello and is a member of Kingston Chamber Orchestra, Ashford Baroque Ensemble and Enigma Orchestra. She lives in Esher and can normally be found out walking with various combinations of her husband, 3 children and 2 dogs!
